Topic: Review of Previous Health Teaching Workshops

00:00:00

Rick: Ok welcome everybody to the 14th health teaching workshop of the Keshe foundation and today we are going to do a review of the previous workshops' material and then questions will be answered by Mr. Keshe on things that have been brought up in previous sessions, and we may or may not hear from Eliya during the workshop.

Dr. Eliya Kostova who usually is hosting, she is busy on the road right now, let's go through to Mr. Keshe at the spaceship institute and see what he has to say today regarding the health sector, Mr. Keshe?

MK: Yes good afternoon good evening wherever you are, this is the final workshop of 2014 and will start fresh on the 3rd week of January 2015.

Well we thought Dr. Eliya would not be here today as she has went back home for the holidays, and we try to open up for more in-depth inspection of the health section, and answer questions that anybody might have. Also to bring some more information into it to clarify it and to clear up any questions. There is nothing new or enlightening unless when we get into questions we can bring out ...so is there any other questions I may answer?

Keyvan: Yes Mr. Keshe, if I may, I have told three of the parents of some of my students to come online and join us on the last Skype sessions because I told them it doesn't cost anything to ask questions, ...ahhh... one of the mothers called me today and started insulting me, you and all the people who have anything to do with this science and technology. I think a while ago I would have been upset and mad but I am trying to bless their souls with peace, reason and understanding. There is one client of mine who has a so-called G-syndrome; I am not a medical doctor or anything, so does that say anything to you?

MK: No never heard of it so I cannot make it out. So why did she insult you? That is interesting!

K: Yah yah, she started insulting me because she did some kind of work or homework but she didn't research it at all. She said I sent a link with the list of diseases and I explained it to her and she started insulting and saying this is totally non serious and non scientific... blah blah... and I said I feel it is like a 100 years ago and would have been burned by fire if I had said anything contrary to the doctrine. So yes that is the situation for now.

What was the disease you mentioned?

G-syndrome, which I think is a neurological disorder of some sort, but no problem. I wanted to ask about another case, he sits in a wheel chair and you most likely would need a very precise description of the disease or of the malfunction to make any sort of opinion on how to reprocess the body, the physicality?

What do you mean in that sense?

If someone is in a wheel chair and has some sort of neurological disorder and when the muscles... uhm... I don't know what they call it... atrophy of the muscles...

MK: You have to see these cases because in some cases what we have realized is that we don't have the technology at this moment. One of the problems is that once you are in a wheel chair and trying to move people again, it gets very difficult, because we understand the process and then strengthening the muscle tissue and fibers is extremely difficult.

We have tried different approaches in the past four or five years, there is one approach that works I have seen people coming off the wheel chair but I stopped the process due to other factors which I thought might make it much easier but it seems that our new approach to reactivate legs or limbs that have not moved for some time is possible. We have achieved it but not what we thought was going in the right direction. It seems we have moved away from what we could achieve before but we have some test to see if we can break into new ground with this.

K: Mr. Keshe at one point you talked about having a reactor at the head and at the feet of a person that had a problem like that I believe and that would sort of align the reactors of the body, like we learned in previous health workshops for yourself and Eliya on the orientation on the brain and for example the lungs the heart and the other organs that form these reactor configuration, it would make sense that aligning the body between the head and the feet and a similar field or a greater field would help orientate those reactors within the body, does that make sense or no?

We used to make helmets, shields and different body parts to activate and it works but took the technology one step further to see if we can achieve it, without the shoes or without the helmet, but in a couple of cases we had success but overall we had problems because it was not comparable to when we use the system because it looks like you have to activate locally everything so that the system can work, to be able to move legs and arms. We have seen the changes, this is like MS that we see on the internet so much which we see the improvements with the thesis seems to back to the nano technology and how to activate, but physically you can get a man walking even though the world says it was impossible.

But we came out in a different direction in the past few months to see if we can activate the movements, though a simpler system and it seems we have not got it right yet, but there are things you can do, in some cases you can achieve more movement but is not as fluent as it was before.

Would the cups of light (life?) be useful in that instance?

No, no. No the cups of light are a different thing.

I am surprised you said no right away could you elaborate on that?

Let's put it this way. We have done a lot of tests and we know the parameters of this and in the long run the answer would be no, in the short run we can say we can try but I know that it won't, because I know the working of the cups of light. If you wish and your wish is strong enough you can move – the body does what the body wish, the emotional part has more say than the physical part, all damage that is a physical damage or rupture, you don't have much say, in other cases you might have a say but this remains to be seen,

In any case you don't really want to make health claims with some of the things you experiment with because it is space technology that is the purpose for all of this, not for being in competition with pharmaceutical companies.

No it is just finding a solution that is workable. If you listen to previous talk or programs we are not successful in every trial and when not we look for why, how and what we don't understand, and when we see a very good success we release the technology now. In January we will offer systems for fibromyalgia, attention deficiency, because we have directly found a solution to this problem.

As of January you can purchase systems at home, the success rate is very, very, high and the ones that do not succeed because their attention deficiency is so high that they will take the unit but it is just for the sake of doing it and not really doing it, but still the system will do its job.

The other system that we will release on a large scale will be next year will be the cancer units the double pack cancer units, people can test, what is happening now, I was just talking to our guys in China, we try to bring things down to a level that it is affordable by everyone but at the same time can give a very high good results, even certain diseases we can release systems for early next year.

So then we can't even say what the percentage is of improvement and if the people are kind enough to send us what they have achieved. One of the things that we very narrowly guide our foundation through is we will tackle illnesses that other medicines have had no answer for, so we keep away from the competition with the pharmaceuticals, at least this will be our policy for at least the next year. There are a number of diseases that the health pharmaceuticals (companies) have no answer for but we have found a solution for it and those will be released and at the same time it creates credibility for the foundation technology too. ...Any other questions?

Can we talk about pain Mr. Keshe and the different forms of pain? Or are they all the same?

To me they are different types of pain but it depends on how or what you call pain, what would you like to talk about pain.

The different forms of pain in an area like if we have back problems in that area or if we have a head ache in that area, the different forms have to do with the different structures so could you speak about why they all feel as pain.

Painful, but do they feel painful, in so many ways you have to, well the way I look at it is you have to look at the source of it the reason for it. If you bang your head against the wall you suffer from pain and you cannot do anything about it. But a lot of pains are self inflicted and in a way it is to show that I am suffering, but nobody notices and it is not for the others, it is literally for you, these kinds of pains we see in older age and in different kinds of diseases and what this means is well let's take the case of fibromyalgia pain

You have pain everywhere in your body, the back, the joints, the head. The feet the upper part of the chest and a huge lack of energy but if you touch these people they are so even touch sensitive most of them which means if you put pressure on their arms they will jump they will cry they say it is painful these kinds of pain are due to the position the body has been put into due to conditioning or physiological situation but what happens is, I don't want to show it but I want to conflict the pain to myself so I remember what I have done wrong, it is like pins and you do it to yourself internally .

It is like a marker they keep for their selves so they never do that again, people with fibromyalgia do that to their selves, but it goes to the point that the pain becomes so real that it becomes uncontrollable and literally stops, like a cut you can watch it heal and psychological that tells you, you can survive anything, if you cut your finger you might bleed you might have a pain but that process of see it healed and peeling off that last is a psychological course of action of you confirming to yourself I am strong enough I can take it I will survive

But pain with the fibromyalgia like in the case of a child being abused sexually, physically or psychologically, or any other way, cannot say anything because the abuser always convince the victim that it is their fault this happened if I raped you it was because you wanted me to rape you, you want me to insult you it is because you like it, you want me to hit you it is because you want it. So being a child you accept this but you know it is wrong so in a way you put a pin in yourself, this, this, wasn't my fault but I got hate for it. When you see the arm go that way then you have a pain in the arm and actually you see pains even in the internal sections of the leg.

As I have explained before we have had a sexual abuse case where the lady have twenty four operations and it was because she just wanted to get rid of the leg, the leg was supposed to be closed so she could be raped on a frequent basis so she sees the failure as a failure of her leg at keep itself closed. In her older age she wants to get rid of it so she keeps having operations, so the doctors are trying to find one solution after another, when in fact the first doctor does a surgery should ask one question how, why and is this the reason,

We see upper arm pain with a lot of women especially on the right hand side this has all to do with the sexual misuse and abuse you have to understand where the pain comes from and what is the root of it, then when you can explain to the adult that what you suffered in childhood wasn't your fault you are innocence, and then they have to accept that wasn't their fault, it is not just understanding it, and when they found out they walk away with no pain, because then they allow the pain which was actually made physical not to be there.

They have sorted it out they don't need to carry a pain, psychological pains are one of the easiest solve but the hardest to accept, because like in fibromyalgia, in trying to claim you have a pain you actually lose a lot of energy, that is why people with fibromyalgia are tired because each place it hurts which is a physical pain the body has to make facilities to cover the pain and uses energy for it, you have what I call the 200 points of pain and let's say they all take 5 calorie each a day to keep that psychological pain under control that is a thousand calories so out of a 1800 hundred calories a day of food consumption you get about 600 that is just for walking around a little bit that is why fibromyalgia people cannot walk.

They are always tired and we see them after a few months' of being in the natural process again and there is no pain, because this was not their fault but they were subjected to it and then you understand these are psychological pains and they can be helped quite a lot, we had a good training regarding the psychological abuse in the course of our work in Belgium. In the Belgium culture sexual abuse is a norm.

According to the police statistic there is an organization in the border on Flemish and border of the French side of the city in Belgium, in this city there is an organization and a women who helped child abuse and I gave a couple of lectures in their center and strange enough according to the statistics by the police 28 % of the children here in Belgium get sexually abused within their family which is horrendous and they did a hidden survey about 3 or 4 years ago in Belgium, they took genetics and in turns out that about 33% of the children are not genetic(ally linked) to the family that brings them up, then when the father finds that the child is not his he begins to abuse it, because I got nothing to do with it, then you see the root of this problem. Then they learn when they grow up because of the abuse , mostly sexual abuse, they come up with all these pains and sufferings because when they grow up at 30 to 35 we see a lot of fibromyalgia, because they have their children and they see they don't do these things to their children that was done to them when they were young and this in justice cannot find a position, then all the sufferings of childhood manifest to them as pain.

This is the structure of the fibromyalgia most of the fibromyalgia we see are mostly with women, when they grow up they don't do this to their children and this is why the brain gets so busy with this abuse why, why, and all the pains that come with it to justify what was done to them. We understand the full process of psychological pain in respect.

So this center is in Rancho, where I talked and this lady was in this center who has been working in this position explained to me this and one of the Keshe foundation supporters, and this lady told me when she took me to their house that they see a lot of children that are abused by the consent of the mother, in a way they take the place of the mother in the relationship. Or the mothers who sell their children or share it with their family.

We seen this in the village we lived in Belgium and it is accepted and this child that gets abused now, in 20 years, 30 years or 40, years becomes a mother and then she will start asking the question why, I look after my children so like they are gold and why was I abused? And then this question takes a lot of energy and then takes over the life and then it shows itself in different ways, we have cases... ahhh... like what Luciano offered us yesterday to bring all the researches into a data we will do, I think it is very well known it has to be known, the sexual child abuse is part of the culture, to me I would stop all of the Belgians from crossing over to other countries because they carry on with the same way with other children.

Internationally there has to be a decision on this, they come on a holiday and they abuse other children in holiday camps. There should be a total ban and with psychological records and start cleaning it up. Then you look at the social structure and the structure of the country, when we don't like a member of the family who does odd things that are not acceptable we put it aside then, then we see why this nation with this behavior has been pushed to the edges of the continent, so most likely it has been rejected and so it has been push to the edge.

I had a good fortune to live in Belgium but in the process of the research we have come to understand that a lot of pains are created, psychological pain in physical pain; you see physical pain and abuse in Italy. Physical abuse of the children, but here is not physical abuse but psychological abuse with a new order of child protection, the abuses are taking place behind closed doors and now that we live here we are open to it we see it quite often, children are used as a batter point and they come out of the room as if nothing has happen and you can hear the hit of the flesh when their parents punish them it is very normal, these children grow up then we see pain comes unwarranted. Not every nation is clean, but we cannot say whatever, but when we speak of psychological pain and then converts itself to physiological pain.

I had the misfortune of seeing huge amounts of this in Belgium in the process of the research. I know that the nurse who was helping us set up the center was appointed by the police and wanted to know if she could help with these children with these pains. One of the Keshe foundation members who took me to this lady with us, she asked does the same abuse exist from the mother to the sons and so forth and the same thing exist in Belgium? It is not just in Belgium but we had the opportunity to see what the police know, 38% officially is very high but unofficially is 50%.

And we have a lady who has written her life story because I could not get her sorted with her fibromyalgia and she has written her story on how she has got to this point and she gave it to us to read it she wanted to be published. Now when she realized it wasn't her fault she now lives near a normal life. I used to give talks in her house because it has to be known by the other people, and 95% in the meeting she organized were all women and they were all abused.

So we have got to understand the source of the pain, if the pain is due to cancer as I always say, no body dies of a cancer lump, nobody dies of the cancer, the death from cancer comes from the lack of energy that comes the other organs of the body because the with the cancer you literally die of a lack of energy from getting no energy and these processes create pain, so if you can understand how the pain is created, how the cancer is initiated through the psychological pain usually, and then you can go back in and sort it out, it depends if the brain has admitted to it.

Amputation pain we know like a phantom pain, we have developed the technology that we can bypass the phantom pain, but it has to be tested so at the early stages of the amputation, so in the early stages for amputation you just put a system in front of the amputated position where the tissue magnetic field comes from the Neuro system to the point of the cut, due to the proximity of this unit due to the cut then gets transmitted out of the body, so if the high charges are coming and have nowhere to go, then they release it on themselves then you feel it as a pain.

In the phantom pain the information comes but they have nowhere to go so they go back up the Neuro system, so they get charges up then get released and that releases back electric shock, so we call it a phantom pain these pains. Now we have the technology to release if it is handled in the early stages, then the body learns how to get rid of them, so it can be solved. The knowledge is we have done it and we know how to do it, there are other kind of pains which you have to go into detail on how they come but the majority of the pains in the man is psychological. Any questions or do you want to expand on it?

Yes that was very good, thank you so much for that.

I think Vince would like to hear a little more about the construction of the pain patch in terms of that there has been some people that have been experimenting with some form of a nano coated plastic, I was wondering if you might expand on that a little with some fuller comments...

From the first week of January we called the Keshe foundation on the commercial side, will market what we call a pain patch. This was a decision of Dr. Eliya and Armen used it and she has seen the effectiveness of it and she said there are some thing in the market that do these kinds of things, they cost around 100, 120 Euro for a patch or a system and it doesn't work with everything.

We have a very simple system that I developed and which has been developed for us, and now we found out in recent past that it can be done much easier, and actually the people who helped us to get it there they have been buying it off the shelf, so we have gone into details of development and of doing it. The pain pads that are being marketed by the foundation are about 65 centimeters by 35 centimeters and they will be marketed at about $15 or $19... it just depends on what we decide in the coming few days because of the packaging and how it going to be protected, what these pads do they create gravitational magnetic fields around the pain, in a way you transmitted the fields back into as a normality into the muscles so there is no pain, sometimes within 2 or 3 hours and sometimes it is an instant release, it is also used for leg cramps these ladies with leg cramps during their period and with monthly cycles and they just put it on and instantly and we see the release.

We have used this extensively for different applications, and very effective, extremely effective, especially like for back pain. What happens with some back pains like when you lift something it creates an acid within the tissues and it creates and the pain actually comes from the separation and the chemicals which are created between the fibers – so what you do, you create a condition that the fibers can't tolerate or allow for the acid to find and be removed.

It is not magic but it works and I have used it for nearly 15 to 20 years in the process and it is very effective, so you don't solve the problem with these pads if you have something chronic you have to see t it but if it is like a muscle pain or joint pain it immediately reacts and what you do is just transfer plasma to magnetic fields in and out of the position and not just to the Neuro system then you don't feel the pain.

Nano material pain pads then again depends on the material you use and there are other realities and you have to be very careful with it. I have looked at it and it's like if you have a CO₂ when you use a copper and a zinc or if you use a copper on copper then you have a copper oxide. Now in your Neuro system there is a copper nano layer and then (if you) use another copper layer you can start developing elements in the fibers, it might work on some but not in certain positions so that knowledge has to be developed because now we understand the position of nano materials as you have done with your plates and then you have a water and you have blood in your muscle tissues there is just a lot of things to consider before you can market those kind of things these are a specific non intrusive systems in which they work we recommend they will be good for about 30 to 50% of the pains but not for all pains,

It will begin on the website in the next week or two, this is a decision that Dr. Eliya wanted it to be marketed because she wanted it for her patients and at 20 dollars is affordable vs. the 150 Euros or 200 dollars, the foundation job is very simple, we try to bring everything to the level that you can buy directly from the foundation or at least it allows us to help those who cannot afford themselves to support it to be relieved of pain, but these pain pads are not a answer to everything . They are not the answer for every pain because you cannot use it for psychological pain.

Ok thank you for that is there any more questions on the Skype call, I see a question still and it says how one can develop their own self awareness to know what is the source of the pain, I mean is it a long process and I think you would notice a process at a good ratio.

I think we ourselves, to analyze our own pain would be very difficult, because we would be biased to it, that is why we are there where we are with the pain and then takes a lot of soul searching if you want to be and if we had accepted it, it would have never been there. We need help from outside to be able to see it. The thing is self awareness is one point but trying to repair the damage that is done is another point.

Right but you have to know where that is coming from, the right person having that look on life is definitely important, but is there a way to internally point out to yourself in your own mind what is actually happening inside of you? Is there any way you can think of or that you know of?

You can do it if you go back to the conscious and analyze the true level of the pain, the true reason for the pain. That is why you see a lot of people have a cancer and it is not what gave them cancer, the food they take, but in fact to analyze the true point of the disease, you have to understand the psychological life. And when you understand the psychology of the life then you can and then you can solve a lot of problems. Then when you're happy running around doing whatever you like to do, nothing matters, this is the normal life, but when you are told you have let's say cancer and the people with cancer nowadays usually start reading what are the reasons I got this cancer, and then in some places they find a reason for the cancer and indications for the Cancer, and then they start soul searching, they go back...

Let's say I am a father and I have a prostate cancer and I know that most likely the reason for my prostate cancer is my children or my son, then I go and look to what have I done wrong with my son? How can I find peace with it? So now I am dying and at least we try to be a little bit more honest with ourselves, we start looking for what we did wrong, we start adding up to close the book, because we don't have much time left, because this is the usual feeling when we are getting to the end of the road. Then you find out some people touch the nerve, or where they assume everything they have done wrong with their children, and then they become just to themselves, not to their son, and they create a condition and that condition changes the emotions, and changes the physicality and you find out they can live with the cancer it doesn't grow and in many cases reverses.

Because they understood, and as I have said emotion triggers it, and through that same emotion they do not create that field, and I have seen this quite a few times, cancers which are not cancer then disappear or it just changes the carrot. But you have to ask them the question, you ate the carrot, but what did you actually feel, what was the emotion in it, then you find out it was possible, every man can reverse a cancer in their body or not reversing it. Their body just accepts it as part of life, because cancer is evolution and at this time our bodies cannot accept the evolution, so that new thing is taking a lot of energy, so that energy leads to pain and that pain leads to other things and then you die of a lack of energy. But sometimes you find a reason, but you're not strong enough to accept the reason.

So the next step becomes very apparent. And some people like to put people through pain because that way they confirm their strength. Why does a father hit a child? He knows it hurts, but this way he confirms to himself that 'I am more powerful, I get battered, so I can batter too!'

Why do women become adulterous, why do men become adulterous? Things we could not have, so in other way we try to justify why we can't get what is not there for us to have, and then one leads to another, then to another, and then you see the psychological pressures on it. There are psychopath people that go do these things that they get different diseases, then they blame everybody and everything for why I am getting the pain and the suffering themselves. ...Any other questions?

Mr. Keshe you talked once about for example the relationship between child and mother, and when the child wants attention and the mother has a very specific role in the family, is it possible, and I cannot make any generalities, but is it possible that a mother wants to have so much control over the conduct of life of her child and vice versa and the child wants attention, that in the end the child ends up with some kind of handicap or disability in a wheel chair or psychological disorder? Is it possible that too much control from their childhood on could do this?

Maybe, I know children who feel totally sick, they can't do anything, and we had a lady that the mother died 17 years ago, but even in the coffin she had control over the woman of 50 years old. She was more or less paralyzed by it. It depends on the strength of the control and those who show themselves to be tough, we have a saying, 'I laugh for you not to see my pains.' You think I am a happy guy and a lot of parents, especially mothers, have full control. They put fear into the lives of their children to show their control, because they are so weak that they are controlled by another part, which is their own weakness.

So you can make your child sick then you have a reason to look after it and then because you look after it you can dictate everything to do with it, because now I am in charge. We see mothers that keep on taking children from doctor to doctor and the doctors keep on saying that there is nothing wrong with the child, and actually they have got to stop and see what is wrong with the mother. I reckon 50 to 60% of children going through hospitals and doctors are never sick, it is the mother who has to have a reason to put a child to be sick, and it is so strong she will carry it through and the child confirms every time "yes I am sick", because if he doesn't confirm he loses the love of the mother and the mother does not have control now and it becomes a ping pong game between the mother and their child, and these controls carry on until the child dies, because the mother has taken control from the beginning.

That clarifies a lot of things for those people I work with, thank you.

MK: You are welcome. ...Any other questions? Today is going to be a very short session...

Yes we are all quiet like mice today it is very auspicious that nothing has crashed yet and nothing has gone wrong, we have a very good transmission and it sounds clear and that is very unusual for a Friday session.

See they are not here for me, ha-ha-ha-ha-ha

There is one person missing in today's transmission too, so maybe that has something to do with it?

Because you see now Teddy she has to take over so she has a rest and then when she comes back we can see what we can do.

Do you have a particular way of approaching the new season? With the health sector we have covered the body in many details, would you want to continue too with aspects of the body in the same way we presented in the first dozen workshops, and so on?

We were talking about that with Dr, Eliya earlier, so we will try to finish with the head, nose and the mouth and then we go into the central... what I call core... which is the stomach and intestines and the function of the liver. And then we go to the reproduction core, which is the womb, and then we start analyzing the relationship between diseases and body abilities from the earliest point of view.

So there is still a lot to cover then?

Yes about a year two years and then you have to go into diseases; how diseases come, and can it be sorted? And what the conditions will be... But don't forget, in the coming months the foundation will erase half the units and then we will see where we will go from there on.

I am sure there will be a lot to discuss as soon as that data starts coming in as well.

There is a point that we should have access to all we need if we succeed in our way in nuclear and bio chemical diseases. Very much at the moment a large number of diseases are due to nuclear radiation, that we see in Hiroshima and in northern Europe. We will start looking at those conditions probably, because radiation and plasmatic radiation is a main concern in how we can protect the passengers.

I see in the news release yesterday the Ebola virus vaccine produced in Canada is now being recalled because it is not being effective as they thought it would, there are side symptoms like joint pain and their fingers are in a lot of pain and they can't get rid of it, so they had to retract the test they were doing. That might be an opportunity for others to fill in alternative techniques like you were advocating.

Our systems have been blocked on the market by the World Health Organization in Sierra Leone, regarding Ebola, but the advantage was we receive further testing with the E coli bacteria, which now we launched a system for it, which we can use for this infection. We have to see who and how will dictate this position with Ebola and how it's going to be taken to the next step because I think there is a lot of things going on in the back ground we see it but that is normal in this kind of organization.

There were for example the doctors in Sierra Leone that wanted to treat with the nano silver treatment and they were accepted initially and then they were banned from doing it. The US was supposed to come in and offer the vaccines, but then the vaccines weren't available, so it is kind of, it seems there is a lot of political conflict, is going on there...

No there is a lot of money making, it is a very, very, big market, it is a huge market and they are trying to control.

And when you say 'they' do you mean governments or corporations or a mixture of both? Corporations, and their investments...

And there is not much happening at the university level at Sierra Leone, we were showing one of the labs which was in one of the video's I think it was in Sierra Leone where things were in disarray basically from not having the resources.

Yes they don't have the resources, and strangely enough the resources sit, and nobody knows, because I went through the different departments, the chemistry, physics and so forth. And as I say, I have more cups than they have in the whole university, and batteries in the house. There is nothing there but some scales from 1950s, if that. Electronics are not heard of, and many apparatuses in the lab. There is no machinery that can produce something, and there are not any standard level machines in any of the universities. Everything is scarce and they educate scientists and when they are at a certain level, which they are good enough and intelligent enough, they are sucked out into America. Large number of the Leonean universities end up in Arizona universities, so it looks like one state has picked one country in Africa, to suck the educators out of, and it is very strange and is a health position in Sierra Leone. It is very peculiar.

When I was there I was told in the morning, there is a dental seminar in the city and can I give a talk there, and they just managed to get me through to give a half hour talk there in the seminar. There must have been 70 to 80 people in there, they were all very old pensioned dentists who came back home to die more or less, they wanted to retire back in Sierra Leone. You don't see young dentists – not what you expect from so many millions of people. I think the whole country has about 200 dentists and 90 % of them are all coming back from Europe or America, so there is nothing left there.

As I have said in my talks before, when they took slaves, they took the strongest and most beautiful ones that they could do something with, and now they take the talented and it is strange, it is just in a different name. These nations are losing their talents, they're getting sucked out of them. They didn't take the paraplegic or the broken legged one, they didn't take the thin one or the sick one when they took the slaves, they went and took the best, and now slavery has a different meaning and a different form, and we put them on a plane and we drain the educated.

Do you think that the religious figure that we seen in the last workshop would be willing to help abolish that form of slavery?

We will show the path next year, because I have a very clear idea on how the foundation is going to work, and it is not respective of me staying alive or not, or if the foundation goes in one direction or not. I have set the direction in play, and even today when we were speaking with our colleagues in China, the team who came here, he is from the Caribbean with a lot of problems. I explained to him on the Skype today, and I am sure he is listening now, or later on, that the profit we make from the sale of our units from this section from the Keshe foundation will be immediately transferred to his country, because he is participating in the developing of technology for helping his nation, and we have the ability to put it in the right places and the people can get benefited from it.

So if you sell 10,000 units, and it goes to one country, and as I have said to him if it saves one single child, then it serves our purpose. We will concentrate where people will respond to it, and the technology has never had the mass media say one thing about it for the Keshe foundation, but this is good, very good! We are getting stronger; the roots are very strong, and we sell the units, and people understand and see by the interactions of the system and the CO2 cells which are going out. The strange thing is for example the CO2 kits which are sent out of here from the foundation, the governments are opening them up and we are removing the plates from them, that the system arrives without the plate, which is impossible when we do it here we know where everything is , if there our units with four plates they take the plates out, but this is the future we change it , we will change it by the people through the people

I had an idea yesterday; that was to adopt a CO2 kit. Basically you could send one to Africa or to the children in Africa or other countries of the world to help out the so-called third world countries, and we could have an 'adopt a CO2 kit' to basically get them into someone in Africa... how does that sound?

Ya, but we have to educate them on what it means or how to use it.

Well they are adopting, some help them and nurse them along, so maybe that is what we do.

Maybe this we can do... we can correct some of what our fore fathers have done wrong to them. We can put it right this way. We don't need mercenaries or missionaries, we don't need people to go do wrong things and right reasons. Maybe it is a challenge to do this, but if it's a matter of teaching them how to do this to their benefit, I was talking to them today, and they said we are making improvements to the energy units, so in the next weeks the energy units will go which will support the CO2 kit.

At the moment I think the CO2 kit will be a nice thing for the contaminated air pollution areas back in China in the big cities, but as I said to the Japanese yesterday, you need to promote the CO2 kits to be able to clean up the country, because you cannot have huge farms of these things, but people can collect as much of these things as they can to help their community and people around the country. And once we go through this process of cleaning up with Fukushima, you have to look at a 100,000,000 units sold in Japan, only because the people understand what is explained to them, what is the purpose for the units, to help their nation get rid of the contaminated radioactive materials.

Then you will find out every Japanese will buy 3 or 4 because they are a proud nation, so we have to explain what it does, not just for the sake of giving it away. They have to understand what it does, the health application of the CO₂ is so huge, and the new applications of the copper oxide with nano technologies are so huge!

Mr. Keshe, what would be some of the best ways to get that information out to the people that need to work with it? This would be to people of the public who ordered a kit... let's say.

There are two ways to do it. One of the ways is set with international governments and the other way is with public. If the international government decides to do it, and tries to bring it out, don't forget we are not the only organization who does this line of helping, there are millions of us! There is an old English saying; the wide and rude, as long as you can get all the organization spread and busy trying to help little by little you can do your bidding and destroy them one by one.

The change will come in the coming months; you will see it. I can see clearly where we are going to go, and we have to give, but to show them how to use it, but we have to show what benefit it has for the nation and humanity. That's when it's going to come, just the first batch is 3000 to 5000 coming out, and that will not last long... a matter of days... but on the other hand what it will do and how it will be put into public of the system will bring the change. The health problems are just the tip of the iceberg for what this technology will do. You see we created the 1 to 9 test valve, nothing, it is just for the people around the foundation know about it a total of yesterday 150,000,000 to 200,000,000 then we showed the landing the last two or three nights but it is like a lunatic told me "when it is on CNN I will believe it", and the Fox has been told not to publish anything about the Keshe foundation.

Then you go back with the applications of the technology with the capture of CO₂, which is a major problem at the moment, noting it is very good because now we have been left on our own to save our own condition. I tell you something, I told this to the American people, you have considered them to have the access to the highest level, and they did not understand this, so I repeat it today so they will understand clearly and to get them to listen to this section.

I have told the Americans that what is to come in the coming months and somehow it is past them, I explained to you that the cause is going to be on the table if it is not understood. We know on the 5th of May the American or one of the most powerful naval vessel was brought to a standstill with just two planes and it had to be pulled into an Iranian port. Now what is in the pipeline what can be done. What happens if the Russians decide to paralyze 3,4, or 5 super tankers in the same way going in or out of the United States? Absolute chaos and collapse of the US economy!

I know they won't hesitate to do that. I had a finger print, it works, I tried to explain to our American friends, but they did not get the clue. If the same process is applied to a number of tankers that bring supply into the United States, chaos and anarchy will start and the next step the economy will collapse and as the Russians will move in this direction and all indications are it could be in that direction and the rest has no protection. All it is, you don't need to hurt a single person, is the way the Russians did with the American navy here in Europe a few months ago .

If Russian leadership decides the number of super tankers, they just become floating tubs of oil as we said before and that's it and I see that on the cod. I tried to warn the Americans, but somehow they don't understand it. Then we will see how the power shift changes, and the level of normality come into the situation. They tried to stop the oil line coming into Europe, so now if you don't sink, you just paralyze super tankers into U.S. God help you! It takes less than 5 hours to create the anarchy

You can stop one or two attempts after it becomes headlines, but then it becomes bigger and bigger, and you seen how easy it is to be done. The game has changed drastically and somehow they do not want to understand.

We hear that in India people are starting to sue Bill Gates for starting an immunization (campaign) that has caused more diseases than anything else, and apparently Mr. Bill Gate already knew about the false vaccination. The solutions sits International all over the place, now what we have seen happen in Gaza with the Palestinians and Israelis over the past few months, has lead the governments around the world to accept the Palestinian government for the first time, because they show the injustice, and now they are talking about criminal activities against Israel.

Because people are becoming educated, we don't tolerate more injustices, but we do it in different ways. The warning is Bert has to get the American officers to just listen for 5 minutes then they will understand. The faster we get on the table talking with everybody else the better it will be. Extract it and send it to them and the coroner will know, who is to understand. There is no use putting high frequency into my ear! There is no problem! So you got to realize that the facts the health will bring, and the body will put on the table, yes they have very little three fours but they have landed the 13 kilogram very nicely, and now we set the system to go upwards and Armen is very happy! ☺ Armen finally gets to go up or try up. We have seen the first interaction this morning with a satellite reactor, and just this afternoon before we came up we seen the link up with the upper reactor, so the Chinese are ready

Anything else or should we call it a day?

I don't think we could we get more on the SSI live stream, I think it is off right now!

But it shouldn't be, because I have to sign off! Gentleman, are we off? Yes, it seems to be down right now!

Oh our chief Engineer Marko is going down.

Was that cheap Engineer, or chief Engineer? Lol ☺ ha-ha-ha-ha!

...Ahh! Nothing here is cheap – you're all golden!

I'm trying to see where we are... where the live stream is... There is no problem with what we do, we just have to know the development and we have to understand what we do with it and how we change it.

I see Bert sitting there. Bert you got a message – call your guys, it is very bad to be so open right, put it this way they played the game themselves, we are just following their example.

Sometimes people associated with you are worried about security but I think you keep things so much in the open, there is not that much that gets hidden to be worried about.

In a way since they been broad casting what they are going to do, not us, so we have nothing to hide. We are very straight open and as I always say our openness has been the key to our success. When we had the Italian securities coming to the house, I took them to the lab and they were shocked. “Are they all Iranian scientists?” I said “No! That one is a Slovenian, and that one is a Belgian, and they found out the secret lab is by all international people, so, it has helped us.

Yes and I think that many people are quite thankful to you and the Keshe foundation for that openness, and as an example in the kids workshop last time we had a 17 year old say that he could not understand how you could offer this teaching, and all these workshops for free, he was quite amazed and happy, very delighted to discover this teaching.

Yes but I think the thing is our next step in sharing, not only the knowledge but the technology, will be very real now. It will be a very big problem, because up to now they are doing this and that and whatever, and now it was the books,, and then it was the teaching and now it is very important to keep a very strict straight forward workshop with delivering the systems to the needy.

Then it shows it is not just only teaching, it has everything else to go with it. I see Bert jumping up and down – call your boys Bert! I think people will have a sleepless night not knowing what is to come.

Armen says sell them CO2 kits! – ha-ha-ha-ha-ha-ha, lol ☺ they need it for energy right?

Mr. Keshe, I need to call you when we get done.

Ok so that is all
