Rick: OK. So here we are at the beginning of the 16th KS workshop with some members of the SSI and MK, at the Kf, and we're about to begin here and go right through to the SSI and see what the latest news from there, and I expect we'll hear something about the last event at Tuscany that happened last weekend and some information on the upcoming meeting of the world leaders, if they show up, that's on the 30th Monday. So also lots of other things, so we'll hand it over to the folks at the SSI and we'll see what happens.

DR. ELIYA'S REPORT

Eliya: Aahh... good morning guys, it's me Eliya, I want to say hi to everyone and a lot of regards from us, and thank you for your support at the Vatican. Also I want to thank the Bulgarian nation for all their support in Sofia, we are so proud of you guys, the work was very hard, we went there to ask for peace and happiness for all the planet and our civilization to follow our evolution in the normal human way.

And – how to say – for me it was such an emotional day, and Mr. Keshe went in the queue to give the letter to the Pope, we were waiting outside and were so emotional and giving a lot of gifts to people around in the square of St Peter. And immediately it started a very interesting thing, when we went in the Piazza St Peter, the weather was so nice and sunny, and when Mr. Keshe went in the queue, a storm started, such a huge amount of rain just falling down to the earth, and all people from the Piazza St Peter just went and joined us. So we start to be a huge number of people waiting for the letter to be delivered by Mr. Keshe. It's like the Universe give us a huge gift, and we made it – how to say – the mind set in our group and our intention to unite all the people around the world, and – what to say – it was really an emotional state for me.

And then when Mr. Keshe came out he was so happy because everything was OK so we congratulated and we hoped that the beginning of this day and afterwards for our civilization to be safe! And everything goes in really nice and really sunny way of living. So that's from me, if someone wants to ask me something?

KS: Thank you Eliya.

E: Yeah – thank you.

KS: Did the other people ask what was happening there? Those who joined you because they had to run out from the rain? Were they surprised at what was going on?

E: Yeah, they asked us because we prepared some kind of gifts – you kind of call it a sample of change so you start to rock in each hand a sample of change and they asked what are you doing? And why are you here? And so all of us KSs we start to explain to the people what we do and why we are here, and we drafted them a small letter about what is the meaning of peace and what is the course for humanity and what is the meaning to be a human being. And interesting was some of them there refused to take it because they were scared what exactly is this, but others just they take it and say than you and start to ask us what is the Keshe foundation? What is going on? Why we do that? And it was really interesting. And we went into the event several of us, but in the end it was all the people in the Piazza, can you imagine what happened there? It was so so emotional, and so so powerful!

KS: how many people would you say were there in general? Roughly ...

E: A huge number of people, if you see the Livestream Rick shows the pictures, this was when the storm started when Mr. Keshe went in the queue, but then the storm started and everyone took shelter, a huge number 2 -3 thousand people, because the place is really big – you know?

KS: Yes. Any news from the Vatican ?

E: Yeah people mainly tourists from all different parts of the Earth and all speaking different languages, everybody asking in some kind of language, and we are so lucky because most of us we know several languages, so we start explaining to them in their mother language, English, French, Spanish, even Italian. And they were really impressed to hear why we were there and just standing waiting for the peace. The idea of asking the Pope for peace was really strange and we said you are also able to ask for peace, you are human, so the Pope is working for you – he's not just working for someone else. Really people were interested to see some human beings like them just asking for peace and for the life for the planet – you know? It was really interesting.

People don't get the idea that leaders of the world work for them, they work for the people, they are not a leader for someone else. They act as if they're separate from us but it's not true, they work for us and they have to serve us, it's not that we have to serve them, do you understand that? So we start to explain to them that thing – they are servants to us and we are able to ask for our peace and what we want as a human being on the planet – you understand? And that idea was very revolutionary for them, they just stopped and started to hear us and asking a lot of questions.

KS I think you are right about that – many leaders have been conditioned to think that we are the servants and they are the kings, but actually it's the other way round.

E: My thought is like that when we are several people and we have one thought in our mind – so we make a new – how to say – entity, common entity which is the summarity of all of our brains and all of our thoughts and finally this new entity starts to attract other people – do you understand? And gradually slowly slowly they just come to us, we don't go to them to ask them, no, they just come to us and asking us – you understand? We just attract them – you understand what I mean?

KS: Yes, yes.

E: Our intention and our feelings just attract others to come to us and ask us what is going on – you understand – it was really interesting to find out what was going on and to find this singularity interaction between the souls of people.

KS: That's amazing!

E: Yeah, it was really amazing, and everyone of us around the table is able to explain the feelings, and every one of us explain the same thing, we start to speak and finally we get it we have one idea and everyone gets these feelings, so we are, how is it in English? – Nucleoli – and we attract other electrons like Mr. Keshe told us – you know? And they just join us, and finally we became a huge number of people there, it was really amazing.

KS: I think the idea that our leaders should be the ones leading us is in most humans – in reality they are the one who have to serve, and actually each one of us has to do that, and when each one of us is doing that we end up with an environment where everything is at equilibrium, to balance – yeah? So people go to these places of worshipping and they think they are coming there to pray to see the people , but they also don't realise that they can ask for changes as well, and that's what starts with the people themselves, because that comes from everywhere, it starts at the top and from the bottom as well, so it's the collective change as well.

V: Well I think a lot of people play the 'I'm only one person' kind of game, and they don't understand that everybody is one person, and one person, plus one person, plus everybody else, adds up to everybody.

E: Yeah we just clusters of one thing you know, we are just one, and everybody has to understand that, and that's why we start to explain to the people just to make up their mind, you know? They are just stuck in the mud thinking that they are important – you understand? They think only leaders are important – no, we are important and leaders have to serve to us.

It is just understanding a different point of view that the people never think about that was interesting to see on this occasion because there are people from all around the world and all of them are thinking they are not important and they just visit the Vatican in a queue like something interesting and to give their regards to the God, and this and that – No, God is inside of us so we are a God, all of us are a Messiah and message of the Knowledge, so we are important, each of us, because we are one. You understand how we have to spread the knowledge and finally 7 billion people on the earth start to work like One.

That was my purpose to visit, I speak for myself to visit Vatican and support Mr. Keshe because humanity all of us are just one, doesn't matter where we are living, and what we are doing. So I passed all the roads from my country to the Vatican, I drive 28 hours without a stop, just because I want humanity to understand we are One, and our planet is our planet, it does not belong to the leaders. It is our mother and our home, you know! It's important!

Vince: Thank you Eliya

KS: Thank you Eliya

E: Yeah, thank you guys, I love you so much, I give all my heart to you and the microphone to some others of the KSs, thank you guys, and thank you for your support I was able to feeling you in my heart when I went in the Vatican, I just knew all of you are with us, and thank you a lot from the bottom of my heart, thank you.

16:00: Rick: Thanks a lot Eliya for that transmission you might say

Vince: Inspirational message

Rick: Yeah, that's a good way to put it Vince.

From here Marko took over and steered the conversation back to plasma reactors and nano-materials etc.
