Rick: Let's begin! Welcome everyone to the 92nd Keshe KSW, and we're here with Mr. Keshe of the Keshe Foundation at the Spaceship Institute in Italy, and ready to begin another Thursday teaching here with the Knowledge Seekers Workshop. We've got some amazing crystal based technology that we're starting to discuss and get interested in here. So, let's begin and see what Mr. Keshe has for topics of the day. Go ahead there, Mr Keshe!

Mr. Keshe: Good morning! Good day to you, as usual, whenever and wherever you listen to these workshops. This is what we call a half-term workshop, the teaching side has shut down last week, but we carry on with our normal usual Thursday teachings where we go through all the holiday seasons for Christmas and New Year, we did it last we carry on, we try to keep the same up this year.

The process of the teaching will not change as much, but the knowledge which is gained, and is going to be gained, will be processed and will be carried on, on the same structure, where on the 18th of January when we come back, the two setup teachings for the 1st Year and 2nd Year will carry on, parallel to each other. As part of the teaching, we are, we have introduced a new dimension into the teachings last week.

Do you want to close it or do you want to restart it? You want me to press close?
Ok! Err.

The teachings, as we explained from next term, will change drastically in the direction of total plasma, and total lift, and motion. Our target is to start the process of first what you call spaceship technology. You have all the ingredients to achieve it. We have explained most of this in the teachings of past two years, now we bring in all the parts together. All the bits of knowledge, which has been taught, and left, it'll come together in a very beautiful way.

We taught you the start with nano technology. We went into the structure of using gas and coils, with ionization of, what we call, gases, using helium, high rotation. Then, in that process, we learned a lot in how fields were reacting and interacting, and in the process, we brought in what we called the gans cores, and this part a lot of you saw a lot affects which was not normal, and you could not explain. One of them was: what we saw 129 Tesla, where the mixture of gas units, which is much stronger, feeding the gas units, which are weaker of the structure in plasma, showed high drainage from one to another. A lot of you should have learned a lot in that point, where we saw the 129, the properties and the difference between the gas and a gas state of matter. Then we brought the whole thing forward to the coils, which was part of the structure of the teaching, and from the coils we're coming to what we call plasma.

Now the plasma is the structure of Universe, and in so many ways, we started with the state of matter. From here, in the next few weeks and the coming time, we start closing the loop. This is how the Universe works. Now in running a universal system, you have seen how plasma: how creates matter, matter creates nano materials, from it you could use gases, you could use gases, you could use the coils to free the plasma, you could use one in interaction with the others, and somewhere in here, in the past week, we introduced you interaction of, what I call, peace crystal.

What does it do? A lot of you got excited with it, but understand the concept and the technology behind it. Crystals, especially matter crystals have a property, have a beauty where they can operate, or facilitate the operation of, both sides of a structure. You can use a matter state to reach a plasma state, property of the plasma which is gravitational magnetic field, or you can do vice-versa, in a way, it's a converter, it's....

Have we lost the screen? It's just for the video? You're still on? Ok!

So, what we have done, and what we'll see, is that the structure of crystals are the structure somewhere between matter and a plasma. SP3, a gas, is in a crystal condition orientation, the, what you call, crystals which you now chose, and some of you are using, is the same kind of process. What it means? It means that you can produce, you can dictate, you can direct the energy of the plasma in one way or another, using S? condition of the clarity of the crystal, where you can boost the gravitational, or you can boost the magnetical. You can increase the matter state towards this entity to become more matter, or entity to become more plasmatic. Or, you can use the energy of the matter to emphasize the power of the plasma.....

..concept in the past few days, since we announced it last week, and there is a lot of discussion in the way we do? Let me explain to you what is going to happen? What is the next step? The way I start teaching and you're following, is in a deliberate way to make all of you being able to produce lift system. The way all of you made the coils, the way all of you made the, what you call it, the star formation, all these now will come together. All this technology, all the knowledge, and I've seen a few people have started seeing it, but they are not following it all the way through.

As is been the pattern of our teaching, we go to the point that where somebody opens the door that the level of understanding is reached, we expand on it, we teach on it. And strange enough, a lot of people I see have already picked on it. So, it means you have managed, or at least you trying to bridge into the knowledge of space technology in available? conversion to guarantee that you do not lose the boundary of your craft, which is your protection.

Last week, when we showed the crystals with the insertion of CO₂, we brought about the process of expanding and extending the power into the emotional level of the man. In that process where the wish of the man becomes his command to create peace on this planet. Some of you have already started testing your command. Some of you have placed these capacitors, you have placed these, what you call, crystals, in a different ways, in the circuitry of your programmes, in your systems, but you start wishing your will. And some of you have seen results, it's a few days, and you are not sure? Was it my wish or has it happened accidentally? We had this discussion with Renan, just before I come in, he said, I want to test. Renan, are you there, you can explain to us? Are you online? No? Do they hear us? Hello!

Rick: I don't. I don't see Renan there right now, Mr. Keshe.

Mr. Keshe: Ok! I explain when he listens, when he comes he can explain himself. But this is happened with other people in other positions too. He has made a system where he has, as we know Philippine was on the typhoon condition in North of Philippine, so it's a in rainy condition, and he says he wished the minute he saw drops of rain, knowing that there is a typhoon around, he wished that there'll be no cloud. And his wishes happened twice. He set a structure. So, he's testing his wish according to the crystal structure he setup, the system he setup.

So, people are testing, if their wish is, before they make the bigger wish that they can achieve peace, because this peace is so elusive that it's brought fear to man. What happens if I fail? The point is none of us will fail. If collectively we do, and a lot of you are putting a lot of crystal positioning colors on your cores, or whatever, would it come true? It will come, because then it's the wish of humanity, and because of the mono energetic system of the crystals, you will achieve it.

Do you have a problem with this? Have we lost the screen? Yeah, but it's still staying at 1%. It's a standard uploading. Yeah, because whenever it comes off it does this. No problem!

So, what we see, is understanding what is happening, and in the other way, because we have reached this point, I have to extend the knowledge, otherwise it can be misused, or it can be misunderstood. In Northern Europe, a lot of people carry a lot of crystals. It's normal, you buy it in a market. You see it everywhere. So, a lot of people have this kind of crystal at the position, so they are testing. Renan sent people to the mine to buy the crystals, because it's near them and they cut it. Natural crystals are available, you can buy it very cheap, 20-30 Euros you can buy big pieces of pure crystals without any damage.

But what does it do? What does it bring you? Why does it allow your emotion, which is your intent, to be so powerful that it can even stop the cloud? Or is a crystal, a way that it gives you confidence to wish, but at least you have a tool to rely on that I use this as a half term interim?, is your wish your command, is what you want is to achieve will be achieved, but you still need that physical tangibility of the crystal to be able to confirm yes?

I said to you last week, we are going to change the course of teaching, we are going to change the course of teaching not by radical revolution, but by bringing, as I said at beginning of the talks today, bringing all the knowledge together. Man has never been taught so much knowledge, in such compressed way, in such a short time. There is no choice, we have to teach at this level, at this speed, otherwise the scattering of the knowledge will become the losses of the past, and collectively we can do. We see people in the smallest islands making the cores, making the coils, making the star formations, we see people in most advanced nations following the same. So, now we have reached enough places, we have reached enough people who are able, and are in position to bring the change about, we have reached enough dots on the plant to start the change.

So, how do we do it? Where do we start? How do we structure collectively to achieve peace, which is the cornerstone of the Keshe Foundation and SSI programme? Very simple, go back to the coils, go back to the star formation, go back to your nano technology, go back into the gans state, go back into the plasma creation without tangibility, and then you'll find the process is all ready, and has been on the table for past ten years.

Everything which has been taught, been written about, what we have brought in private teachings and in the public teachings, now has to come together, because in the process of next few weeks, we will start, most probably some of you have already started without knowing the process of the development of what you call UFO's, or what you call spaceship. It's my job to make sure it's done correctly, and it's done in a correct manner that we all share with it, we all understand it.

Today's teaching is fundamental, because from now on, we're targeting one way, the spaceship lift, building of systems, which creates us the totality of the Oasis System, which one part of the Oasis System is being able to lift, not to be in the position of danger. We look at the Oasis as the word where we find comfort, we find pleasure, but one part of the whole Oasis System is being able to move from the position of danger. And, as all of you, and most of you in the past week have been jumping very rapidly into, what I call, the somewhere at the middle end of the process. I'll tell you one simple thing, if your intention is peaceful, if your intention is correct to achieve balance in all levels, not humanity, but the universal balance, you will see and you will create with the systems you have, the totality of what your wish.

Last week we had, what I call, Alekz here, I explained to him in a very simple way, what should be done with your power unit, and the conversion of the plasma into a state of matter. He went back to London, and he has managed to convert plasma into matter state by producing oil. What we said, the power units, which you have, will give you everything you need. So, the first time we have shown you can convert the energy from the plasma into the matter state, which is the production of oil, which is the essence of creation of life, and in a large quantity.

So, we are running another test with him this week, hopefully he is online, he can explain to us. But what we done, as we said, when you set a system which is your power unit, which you all hungry to get 10%, 20%, 30% reduction, was there to give you what we told you from the beginning. This is the power unit for example. We have removed everything, because we are not going to here, and what if it would have done, and would have placed, if you would have placed, as I suggested to you, different cores in different position of your power unit, you should start seeing what you have actually been hoping for. On one side you produce water, on one side you produce oil, on one side you produce whatever you need.

In this combination, in the specific way, which you have to understand, we have managed to produce oil in a tangible way. In the other system we can produce water, so if you look at it, as usual, if you look in the right place.....

I got a lot of complaints, you were very harsh last week, you used words, which was not good, but the words were chosen to ignite and to understand where the pitfalls are, not to insult. It was set deliberately to stop a lot of things, which were happening in background by few, but not to insult anybody else. But if you listen to the teaching of last week, and you understand this structure where your core reactor sits in the middle, in fact the core reactor in the middle is your crystal, is the secret of life. You are looking for tangibility of crystal, I gave you the crystal in the reactor composition. You are looking for a few watts of energy, I give you the whole essence of creation. And this was not to insult last week, it was to explain, you always look for the meager crumbs, but you're sitting with biggest cake in the universe in your hand.

If you look, the shape of this power unit is very much triangular, star formation, and is a crystal structure. You looked to find tangibility of the physicality of the crystal? I looked to teach you the next level of increase in power to be able to produce the elusive, what you've been looking for, spaceship programme. Let's bring in together. Let's talk in how the humanity in total can change everything that is there.

Can I use it now? Yeah? It doesn't move it stays there? Ok! Yeah. Thank you!

Look what I gave you. This is your power unit. Look what you have, a crystal in the middle, because the cylinder in the center of your coil is a crystal condition. If you look, your coils are stacked on 3 layers, remember the teaching of the skin of man, remember the teaching we had somebody showed you last week, that when you put 3 layer together, you achieve hexagonal shape, which is shape of the crystal. So, in fact, you looked into the crystal, but I already gave you the crystal through your cores.

Pardon? Can you go down now? Can we see the full?

So, what you've been looking for, to create that crystal, is already in your hand in your possession. So, what do you have to do, you have crystal in your hand, you've been looking into elusive matter state, you already had it in your hand, in the condition of the core.

Now what do we do? What do we do? You built the coils, you nano coated them, you put gans in them, you filled them with the same material, more or less, as the crystals. What have you missed? Why last week I explained you're all physical, and this is becoming frustrating? And you saw it as an insult. But it wasn't an insult it was to wake you up. How much we cannot go step-by-step spoon feeding, some of you have to extend the knowledge of the man beyond spoon feeding.

In your coils, on the three stacking unit, you have already achieved the crystal formation on the top, which is what your wish is. The three stacker, three layers of the inner, middle and upper skin, all in a gans state creating a hexagonal shape the way we've seen on the northern poles of Saturn. The way it was shown last week, with a gentleman showing us the plasma creating hexagonal shape. Look at your crystals still hexagonal shape. So, your crystal, your wish, is in your hand.

What is the next step? The next step is what do we do, and how, and where, do we take this knowledge? Where do we go, in understanding what is the next step for man? Go back into the teaching, go back into what you all got involved so heavily with, and then you thought we've made all these coils, we've made all these cores, and he moved on to something new. Because the knowledge of man is in chapters, so we covered, the chapter by chapter.

Now you have your hexagonal coil, you have your hexagonal field energy. What do you have to do? Go back to origin, your star formation base, place your coil in the center of the base, you'll receive your beam. If you look at it in a flat condition, what we done with all the teachings, this is the base of your star formation, and the true plasmatic crystal in the center of it, which is the coil which you built. You have next step, now you have managed to beam up a homogeneous beam using the interaction, and in conjunction with the coils and cores.

Now, what is the next step? You have one less step missing, You have one step to develop the condition of mono energetic molecular laser, not mono energetic atomic laser. Because, where you have coated the ganses on this coil, your plasmatic crystal is for the first time gives the man the opportunity to create a stable continuous mono molecular plasmatic energy: you have the CO₂, you have the CUO, you have zinc and whatever you put on that coil as a gans, it's fixed it will not move and give you a steady continuation of the fields with what you need to keep a life field that the field created is the strength of the amino acid of physicality of the man.

When you create a plasmatic field like this, it means now you have built a shielding that allows human life in the space. It allows the development of the next step that whatever comes up of your reactor of your star formation, will lead to guarantee of the survival of life in space for a human gravitational magnetic field strength. So, that's why you've been brought up through these steps. This is your base.

Now, what do we do next? Where is the next step? Your base, you built, has three cores of your star formation, you have managed to create a plasmatic crystal, which can change according to the environment, if you want to change it, you don't need to change material. Now you have the flexibility of guarantee of life, but you have a fourth reactor on the pyramid of the star formation. If you look at it on a plane, you have, you have a core somewhere a core there, you have your star formation reactor, and you have the top reactor here, your star formation sits like this, and your coil, your crystal plasma sits over here, and your fourth core is somewhere here. You need to create a second stacker, this second stacker will sit somewhere here, and if your distance judged correct, this is your free plasma in the center of the second stacker.

This is why I asked you, and I guided you, but I do not enforce, you made a coil with gans condition, and then you made a coil with firing condition. With a gans condition you brought the elements of the Earth, with a firing condition you brought the purity of the structure of mono electrical, what you call, plasma of the matter. So, in fact what we've seen with 129 system, you create a homogeneous field, which transfer back to itself, and in loading and becoming crystallized, in so many ways, you create a field that allows you to create your spaceship.

The system, the second point, which is the green point on the screen, here, becomes so powerful in receiving energy from it's feedback and it's own structure that it will create a shielding automatically like this. The depth is where it allows your three base reactors to operate, and it concludes and brings inclusively all in position of reaction to interact to create the immediate lift.

You've been looking to create a spaceship, now you have the answer. Any of you who build a star formation, any of you who achieve to create the coils, any of you who achieve to create two sets of coils, you should be able to condition your systems to achieve field flight.

One tip I give you, one tip, and remember: do not reload your cores, but do not put them on rotation, do not put your coils on rotation, because if you do so you separate the plasma and then you'll have a problem, fill in your cores with a combination of CH₃, CUO, and CO₂, that you create the plasmatic gravitational gradient that allows the floatation and the rotation of the plasma inside the coil, you do not need motors to create rotation. Then one thing you have to do to achieve the interaction is: what we'll do, what will happen, is that this system....

Stand back! Can I move your box somewhere?

You've got to understand now, how the whole thing comes into operation. Because, you are using three layers of gans in this, fill it up, try to extract as much liquid as you can, water out of this circle. See what is going to happen to you? You will create a hexagonal field in all your reactors. If you understand it, you create the walls of your elusive crystal. You feed plasma through single crystal, mono energetic, try to choose the same materials slightly different weight in your system. In your cores, if you feed in for example one measure of CO₂, two measure of CUO, and one measure of CH₃, in the other one change the combination do two of the other, one of the other, and maybe three of the other. Because, you need the gradient change that allows the rotation of the fields in this manner.

So, for the first time, you will understand how Universe works without any motors. Variation in the gradient allows and creates motion in the physical dimension.

I was talking to Vince yesterday, or to somebody, I think it was Vince or, somebody I was explaining. One of our Dutch knowledge seekers has put a copper plate, nano-coated, and a zinc plate, trying to create a CO₂, and by accident walking with a torch, he sees the rotation of the plasma in the amino acid level. Just on the surface, you see a full ring, floating. Go on the You Tube, and look what he's done.

So, what it means these fields are continuously rotating, but in a hexagonal shape, in a way, from wedge to wedge they create a rotation of the fields in the center core, in a spherical condition of the center of your crystal plasma.

Remember, when even you are making your coils, in setting up your coils, all of you, most of you, what you've done, more or less all of you have done, is you gans-coated your cores with the same gans for all three. Where what you should have done, or what you should do, every layer of the gans has to be creating a gradient of flow.

Remember, the principle of the plasmatic interaction which we saw with Brian Douglas, how the fields in his box moved, he had a heavy mixture of gans, he had a CO₂, CUO, and he had CH₃. In fact what you get, you have to nano-coat, in a way you have to gans-coat, or you can even create coils of different elements to create the more powerful to give it's energy up to the weaker, and now you have a bullet. You saw the bubbles with Douglas' system floating up and coming down.

So, a system, which is pre-planned and designed perfectly is ready for flight. When you make your stacker unit to achieve to be in the position of the free plasma, then you understand your wish is your command, because in all the systems you have allowed a mixture of CO₂ which is connected to your emotion. If peace is your condition you will achieve peace, you make all of these gans coated with CO₂. If flight is in your condition, your desire in having it, and understanding that now you have created a bullet, you created a diversion on the bullet, because now if you put as your second stacker here, this was your first stacker, and now you repeat or make a diversion, or if you can design it well that your free plasma sits somewhere here, then you can see how the bullet, how powerful it become.

This brings to you the still to half matter state, half plasma state, but at least for the first time it brings humanity into the condition to be able to create craft entity, which he wants without matter. A plasmatic condition where once you produce these fields around your system, now gives you the possibility of the creation of the system, the way you have seen in the universal condition.

Alekz has put a system here, which the interaction of the fields, have allowed it to create oil. On the other side you decide to put another condition, you create water. He says, he thinks his water level in one of the containers has moved up?

Is there a problem? Air conditioning? Oh maybe we managed to create a crystal matter? Matters are flying in. Look! It's not a joke! Look! We are getting materials falling on our head. There we are. It is real look! It is just blowing out and only on top of the air-conditioning. I think we switch the air-conditioning, we've got to switch in off on the back panel. Yeah, so very interesting at the time of creating matter it just blows down off the sky, I think God is trying to talk to us.

So, what you see, in fact again, as we said, again now you have the creation of condition of the water. In so many ways, we have reached the pinnacle of the conversion of plasma into the matter state. Into the wish of what we want. Into how we see the production of energy, conversion of the energy, understanding of the conversion of the plasma energy into the matter state, as we need.

There is question mark with what Alekz has done? And we know in the next few days, he is testing it now. As one of the masters of the Keshe Foundation, as I call him Mr. Professor, because he prophesizes his wish, and his wish comes reality. Is that now we are testing something very interesting, the way Alekz has worked, is that he has positioned an orange, in a certain position in the system, that we saw the reduction in production of the oil, on the system. Retesting again, how we transferred the oil of the orange, having made a gravitational magnetic field equal to the oil of orange? Once we extracted all the oil, the production stops. So, we are replacing the orange with a new orange, with this new fresh oil. So, if we achieve oil transfer again, we have managed to do a transportation of matter using fields only. You saw this in transformation of energy of the orange to have a taste. If this test confirms to us correct, which Alekz is working on, hopefully he can tell us. Alekz are you on line? Oh, he is still asleep, he works till late.

You will see, that for the first time, we have managed to take the oil within the orange, and transfer it on the skin of the container outside. It's a collective oil, it literally, you can literally touch it, you wipe it, your hand is all oily, and we are collecting it, it's not, it's not a feeding. We are physically, but the problem is, as Alekz says, the room it just smells of orange, when you come in you can feel it. It's like somebody has peeled an orange, has released the essence of the oil of the orange in his oil, and it's very simple the way he's done it.

As I told you, we have a few masters in these teachings, and more and more of you will come up the surface, and it's the way the innovation is becoming part of the reality of the process, and we've seen it now.

Have we managed to transfer the oil of the orange from the orange into different position? Then have we managed to achieve transmutation of elements through plasma? This was the promise of the (Hallah?) when man can achieve the transmutation of elements. Not only, we have taken the oil from the orange, we have manifested it in another position, exactly the same. We repeat it, we'll let you know. In time, we release you the technology the way it's done, that you can replicate it, but we have to make sure, what we see, what we have, it can be replicated.

So, in that process not only you have achieved plasma condition in emotion, you have achieved everything without relying on any electronic or electrical system. Creation of the emotion by intention. So, because you have placed CO2 gans in all these structures, you are connected, and you have connected the system through creating the CO2 with a zinc plate to your emotion. Zinc in the body of the man is a connection with his emotion, which carries the energy to his understanding of the physicality, without tangibility. So, in fact when you achieve such a position...

So, what is the problem? I am disappearing? You need to move a little bit towards me, because the side of the screen is not fully in.

So, what we achieved, we can confirm it, and some of you have done different version of these, is transmutation without the loss. Up till now, every time man tried to transmute, left part aside, could not understand it, but with this way, using the system, and I have to tell you one thing, the system, the power units are used for this technology, one of the power units which you received as you purchased is used for this purpose, it's not something outside it.

So, the crystal condition of the magrav power unit is the center of this structure. The plasma system, the magrav system, sits in the center of this setting. And if you remember, you used the orange on the top, this is your magrav system, if you look at it, here we have placed the orange on top of the magrav system, but we allow the separate condition to manifest the oil.

So, we have managed to do what we wished, and this was to confirm the condition, your wish is your command, and you can create what we said, in a matter of placing a condition of another material on this side, I try to rub this off so you can understand it. By placing a system here, all we done, we transferred the energy of the system, it's not that the oil of orange has moved this way, the oil of orange has moved this way, and then, because we created the condition like the orange itself there, it's getting deposited. Transmutation of elements transmutation of the essence of the element, the flavor, the matter, the emotion, everything is in there, you enter the room, you smell the orange.

Don't forget, this is not the first time we've seen this. Lisa, from the Chinese Unit, which sent for the, His Excellency President (Xi Jinping?) to China, informed us a few weeks ago, the Chinese scientists when enter the room, they feel happy, they call it the happy room, where the unit is. Because, it carries the emotion of peace, it was taken by the delegation for starting a peace process in China, as one of the, as the only world leader, as a nation. We don't accept the United States as a world leader, the most bankrupt nation cannot be world's leader. The richest the most peaceful, which is Chinese nation, has received it, because their target is achieving peace, so they achieve peace.

Ah, there is a mascot, where is your boss, lover? You want to come?
